What is the Self Assessment

- To find out what needs to happen to make sure people with learning disabilities and their families are healthy, safe and well
- To make sure that all this information is in one place.
- To make sure we are checking the same things in the same way
- To help Health and Wellbeing Boards work out what they need to be working on locally
- To help people who plan and buy services choose the right ones

Being Healthy

- Learning Disability nurses support GP's and hospitals to give good health care
- The number of people with learning disabilities who have had a diabetes check is the same as the people who don't have a learning disability
- There is lots of good information about Cancer screening but not enough people are having checks for cancer

Being Healthy

- Lots of people are getting Health Checks but they are not getting Health Action plans
- We need to get better at recording things like how many children there are with a learning disability and when people with a learning disability die

Being Safe

- There are rules that organisations like health, social care, voluntary groups and the Police follow to keep people safe. It is the Multi Agency Policy and Procedure for Safeguarding
- More people need to have a review but it is good that people who are at most at risk are being reviewed
- We are working with organisations to make sure they know about the Mental Capacity Act and that they are using Deprivation of Liberty properly

Being Safe

- Family carers and people with learning disabilities said that usually they are treated with Compassion, Dignity and respect but not always
- People are worried about how the change in budgets will affect them
- “I feel like a jar that is nearly full and it doesn’t take much to make me overflow”

Living Well

- Health and Social Care work together to try and support people
- Education, Health and Social Care working together to prepare young people for adulthood
- We need to do more to support people into Employment

Living Well

- Changing Places toilets
- We need to do more to make sure people can access the Community – and have the support they need
- People need to be able to access transport to get to where they want to go

What we want to do in 2015

- Learning Disability nurses will make sure GP's are recording Health Action plans
- Find out why GP's have not recorded many children with a learning disability
- Make sure a new Health system called PRISM is used to tell health care providers about what support people need

What we want to do in 2015

- Make sure we carry on reviewing people who are most at risk
- Quarterly reports on what contracted providers are doing
- Check that plans to keep people safe are working well

What we want to do in 2015

- Work with Local Area Coordinators to find more ways for people to be part of the community
- Work with the Get Set Programme to support more young people into Employment opportunities
- Update the Carers strategy and make sure the Care Act is working well for Carers

What we want to do in 2015

- Talk to more family carers and people with learning disabilities about their experiences
- Write one big plan for learning disability in Leicestershire that includes Winterbourne, the Self Assessment and Better Care Together

What happens next

- The Public Health Observatory will be decided on how each area rates overall
- We think we will be Amber. There is lots of good work happening, there are lots of things that need to get better
- A national report will be published at the end of May 2015

Thank You

Thank you to all the family carers and self advocates who shared their stories as part of the Self Assessment
